

People. Processes. Solutions.

Finally Time For Your Success!

More Efficient IT Solutions For Your Processes

>> synko GmbH focuses its attention on the employees in your company, their tasks and the software that supports them.

>> It is our mission to jointly develop the processes with you so that your company can perform at its best.

We Understand Your Language

The requirement for excellent IT solutions lies in a partner who is experienced in the specifics of your industry. A partner who has experience in the efficient support of highly specialized business processes through software – in short: one who understands your language.

To be honest: How much of your time do you and your employees actually invest in the realization of your goals and visions? And how much of your time do you and your employees spend on unnecessary and exhausting "fire-fighting actions"?

With the IT solutions of synko GmbH you will have more time for your success – simply because your employees work will more efficiently and productively.

>> You believe that you can save money and time by using more intelligent processes?

>> So, do we!

Sometimes things have to move quickly.

Your company is characterised by the fact that you provide complex logistics services for your customers. The supply chain of your company is very closely linked to that of your customers. Your customers expect you to

- keep promised deadlines accurately,
- supply goods and ordered quantities correctly,
- strictly maintain the required goods quality,
- label the goods according to customer specifications and
- be able to trace batches without having deficiencies.

Sounds difficult? Not really! – Together we can find a solution!

Our Guarantee For Your Success: Solid Planning, Intelligent Software and Consistent Project Management

synko GmbH focuses its attention on the employees in your company and their tasks. It is our commitment to develop the processes together with you so that your company performs most efficiently. All operational processes can be designed more effectively. And these processes contain immense resources, which we will make use of with you. That's a promise!

>> Knowing your partner helps you understand their expectations.

We want:

- that your employees can concentrate on their work and "do the proper tasks".
- that your employees do their jobs optimally and "do their tasks correctly".

In other words: We want you and your employees to have time for the essential things.

We develop software solutions that enable you to focus your full attention on the central tasks of your company and provide your employees with the best possible support.

Granted: At first you may not see the potential of our business solutions. But behind the scenes we work with utmost technological competence to develop the optimal solution for you. And this solution should be characterized above all by: having top quality and being easy to use.

»We are united above all by one thing: the unquestioning enthusiasm for solutions. We love the challenge: the more difficult and complex a situation appears, the better.«

Wolfgang Jaksch, CEO
and Founder of synko GmbH

Wolfgang Jaksch and Markus Köhler, the founders and managing directors of synko GmbH, met during their university studies of computer science. They both share an early passion for IT, problem solving and the creation of efficient processes. In 2004 both decided to combine their skills and established their own company: synko GmbH.

>> Our principles: confidence, sustainability, responsibility and enthusiasm

Confidence, sustainability, responsibility and enthusiasm are the principles that we expect from our employees and which we naturally also bring into your projects. Our employee base is continuously growing. There is a solid reason for this: synko GmbH does not only train, it supports and promotes all employees, and offers an informal atmosphere coupled with the basis for creativity and individual development.

»We are only satisfied when we have developed the optimal solution for your special requirements. When everything fits perfectly and there are no ifs and buts. When you have enough time again to concentrate on your business.«

Markus Köhler, CEO
and Founder of synko GmbH

synko Solutions: So That You Have Time For The Essential Things

Our guarantee for your success: solid planning, intelligent software and consistent project management. For a successful IT project you need a partner who speaks your language. A partner who is familiar with your industry and can provide references.

>> Don't be satisfied with second best solutions – neither will your customers!

We at synko develop software that optimally supports individuals in their daily work, reduces the routine tasks, provides structure and offers exactly the information that is needed for the specific task. In this context, each of our customer solutions is individual – even if it only consists of standard components.

Our products are industry solutions based on Microsoft Dynamics NAV or Dynamics 365 Business Central that have been proven over many years. This guarantees that your investment is protected in the long term.

»The service philosophy of synko to get engaged with the customer and the commitment was just astonishing. We achieved significant improvements in the process flow by introducing the new software: Less storage space, faster order commissioning, more ergonomic processes – all resulting in significant time and cost savings.«

Konrad Laubach
Manager Logistics and Business Development, Bürklin Elektronik

»The industry solution of synko GmbH can be described quickly: simple – comprehensive – complete.«
